Great Fire of Chislet!

As part of our Great fire of London topic Class 2 made some Tudor houses out of cardboard boxes and corrugated card. This week they got to burn them!

The houses had to be set up in a long line touching one another just as they would have been built back in 1666.

The winds were nowhere near the same strength as those experienced during the Great Fire of London and the fire was slow to start.

As the fire gained momentum it soon spread from one house to the other until all of class 2's houses had been destroyed and reduced to cinders.
